JAPAN AND MEXICO DECIDE TO ABANDON THEIR PACTS

SECRET AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE TWO NATIONS WILL BE DONE AWAY WITH NOW THAT TRUTH OF CONDITIONS HAS BEEN DISCOVERED.

TAFT WAS NOTIFIED TODAY

Massing of Troops On the Mexican Border Has Had Its Effect in Causing Abandonment of the Plan of Special Privileges For the Japanese Granted By Mexican Government.

Washington, March 23.—Sweeping assurances that Japan will withdraw at once from Mexico, were given President Taft by Ambassador Uchida, it was learned today at yesterday's conference at the White House. Quick confirmation came from Mexico City in the announcement that followed the martial demonstration in Texas, that a secret Japanese-Mexican treaty framed last April, but denied that it had been abrogated.

Uchida told Taft that he could not assure hereafter that Japan would take no part in the Mexican affair. Diplomats and high officials say that the report is true and bear out the theory that the army mobilization in Texas served both as a warning against Japan and Mexico.

TELEPHONE COMBINE OPPOSED TO THE AD VALOREM TAX PLAN

Combination of Over 200 State Companies Say, "Give Industry Time to Develop."

Madison, Wis., March 23.—The Wisconsin Telephone Association which has a membership of some 200 of the largest independent telephone companies in the state opposes the Tensdale ad valorem tax bill now pending in the legislature.

The association agrees that the theory of ad valorem taxation is just and equitable but believes that the telephone industry is passing through the pioneer stage in Wisconsin and that the difficulties and expense attending the making of an inventory of the property of the companies in the state, numbering over 600, would impose too great a tax and expense upon the industry at this time.

At present all telephone companies are taxed upon gross revenue. The Wisconsin (Bell) Company pays at the rate of 4 per cent on gross revenue and its tax for 1910 amounted to $110,000. The independent companies pay at the rate of 2 1/2 per cent on gross revenue. Under the proposed ad valorem plan all companies will be brought to the same basis. It is claimed that under the ad valorem plan the tax of the Wisconsin Company would be materially reduced, while the taxes of the independent companies would be considerably more than at present. This, the association claims, the smaller companies are not yet able to stand and asks that the proposed change in method of taxation be postponed a few years until they can get their business on a more substantial basis.

A great many of the independent companies are organized for local service only and are a great benefit to the community in which they operate, and not being engaged as money making concerns it is claimed that they should not be taxed beyond their ability to pay or to such an extent as to require an increase in the rates charged farmers and other telephone users.

The association has shown that the cost of administering the proposed ad valorem law would consume the greater part of any increase in tax that the proposed change would produce and has also shown that the present plan is simple, effective, and administered with practically no expense to the state.

It is rumored that because of the attitude of the association the committee having the bill in charge is considering the advisability of postponing the change so as to give the independent telephone industry in the state every opportunity to get upon a substantial basis.

According to the report of the association there are not less than 250,000 telephone users in the state, a great majority of whom favor a continuance of the present taxation plan as against the proposed change to ad valorem.

QUIET IN LOCAL TOBACCO CIRCLES

BUSINESS OF NOT MORE THAN USUAL ACTIVITY IS REPORTED BY DEALERS HERE.

MOST OF CROP DELIVERED

But Small Amount Remains in Grower's Hands at Present—Some Old Tobacco Has Been Bought This Week.

Quiet prevails in the local tobacco market with only the usual work to be done in the warehouses that are handling the 1910 crop. There has been no buying on the new crop this week, and a number of the dealers report that they have received substantially all of the crop which they had bargained for. It is reported that several of the warehouses are about to close as they are practically through receiving and there is only the work of clearing up what is stored on the floors.

Several firms, however, are planning on much longer runs and will keep their forces going until well into the spring. Among these are the local branch of the American Tobacco company, P. S. Baltes, and Haskins & Schwartz. The former concern has about finished weighing up the crop which will remain in the hands of the growers and which are to be held in the sheds until they can be handled at the warehouse. In the neighborhood of 175 to 200 acres have been weighed up in this manner.

In the northern sections of the state the report also comes from dealers here who are handling that goods, that the 1910 crops are all bought and are fast being delivered so that by the end of this month or the middle of next but very little of the leaf will be found in the hands of the growers in that section.

Among those who have received this week are: Sanford Sawyerhill, some 35,000 pounds; Haskins & Schwartz, three cars, and they expect to receive a car or two from Transpacific county the last of the week; also N. L. Carle and other dealers smaller amounts.

Although the season has been rather quiet, there has been a great amount of work done in a short time. It was well toward the first of February before any of the houses opened up for the regular work of the season and during the past two months a tremendous amount of work has been accomplished. Large forces have been at work at a number of the houses and the dealers have been anxious to get the crop out of the way as far as possible before the warm weather of spring and summer overtook them.

There is a good deal of work to be done yet, however, especially by those who are putting up large packages. There has not been much done in the old tobacco market here during the past week. It is reported unofficially, however, that J. F. Reichard of York, Pennsylvania, who has been here recently, had bought in the neighborhood of 250,000 pounds of goods including some of the new. Most of this, it is said, is of the cheaper grades which could be secured at a very low figure. However, the movement of consignments out of storage has been very light.

It is the general opinion of the dealers here that the demand for the Wisconsin leaf is becoming greater every year. The demand at the present time is for mild cigars and there is no other tobacco which can be used to better advantage with the Havana than the Wisconsin leaf. They believe, almost perfectly to make one of the best tobacco flavors.

Nurse Enters Service at Frontier.
Miss Emma Kelly.

Chicago.—The call for "war nurses" was answered by Miss Emma Kelly, 1419 West Adams street, and Miss Lucy Krause, 1423 Jackson boulevard.

"We're going to be on the Mexican border when the soldiers cross the Rio Grande," said Miss Kelly.

Two other young nurses, Miss Jessie Thorp and Miss Margaret Darling, agreed to "go to the front" if war was declared. The nurses enlisted in the federal service at the recruiting station in charge of Lieut. Kenny, 488 State street.

"I will be happy to go to Mexico," said Miss Kelly, smiling at Miss Darling made in handsome army uniforms and dressing officers. "And I have 70 reasons for wanting to go, the biggest one being because I have been in Mexico before and know just how it looks. Also I am positive that a charge of seven cavalry regiments doesn't make any more noise than Wilson avenue express train circumnavigating the 'loop'."

"Duty as a war nurse is very different from from acting in the same capacity in times of peace," said Miss Krause. "There isn't any drug store around the corner when you are working in the field, and a little bandage has to go a long way, but I'm in more exciting. Girls with ideas in goal circulation have to do something and as I believe that the men should have the privilege of doing all the fighting and all the fighting, I am content to take care of them, in an official way, of course."

"Of course, in an official way," affirmed Miss Kelly.

"The battlefield isn't any bloodier than the hospital," said Miss Kelly. "and I'm not at all afraid of bullets if they aren't directed my way. I don't believe the Mexicans will shoot at us, and if they do I have a superstition that I wasn't born to be shot."

"No," said Miss Krause. "Miss Kelly will warn the Mexican soldiers and be a little dove of peace."

"The nurses are preparing to leave for Mexico at any moment."

Wifely Economy.

After weeks of waiting and longing for the sport, rods, reels, gaff, croel—everything was in readiness for a week's trout-fishing. The young wife, smiling joyously, hurried into the room, extending toward her husband some sticky, speckled papers. "For goodness sake!" he exclaimed, "what on earth are you doing with those old fly-papers?" "I saved them for you from last summer," she answered. "You know you said you always had to buy flies when you went fishing!"

Gone, but Not Forgotten.

Lady Customer (in furniture shop)—What has become of those lovely sideboards you had when I was last here? Salesman (smiling)—I shaved 'em off, madam.

Girl Student Wins Competition.

Miss Louise Stanwood, a special student in Radcliffe college, has won in the play competition of the Harvard Dramatic club. Miss Stanwood's play, "The Progress of Mrs. Alexander," has been accepted by the club and will be presented in December. The competition was open to both Harvard and Radcliffe students. The Emmanuel Society of Radcliffe gave three representations of "Cyrano de Bergerac" last month for the benefit of the scholarship fund. Each year this society raises the money for one tuition and something toward a permanent scholarship fund. There is still lacking $5,000 to make up the permanent fund.

The Cardinal's Coach.

A cardinal must not walk in the streets of Rome or in the populous districts beyond the walls. He goes in a closed carriage drawn by muffled and well-groomed black horses. Before the loss of the temporal power the carriages were scarlet, drawn by four or six horses, unmounted by a gilt railing resembling a crown. Valets and coachmen wore gorgeous liveries and three other carriages conveyed the secretaries and chaplains of his eminence. These equipages were laid down in 1870, and some of them may be seen taking farmers and their families to the Roman market. Vegetables are packed on the roof and where the valets stood behind.

Seek Prison as Refuge.

In Japan there are people who make sham confessions in order to obtain a period of the comparative warmth and comfort of a Japanese prison. The Japan Mail says: "The police along of the capital has words to describe and distinguish these persons. 'Moshi-kul,' or the rice criminal, will steal some small article from a shop front in such a way as to be seen doing it. He then makes a bolt of it, pursued by the manter of the shop or some faithful kora, but presently allows himself to be caught and handed to the police. He has to 'do time' for his pretended theft, but his rice is secured for a period, and when that period has elapsed he will allow himself to be caught again."

Pleasant Praise.

A local painter spent three months on a painting. He spent a good deal of money on models, but the finished product justified all his expenditures and all his time. Everybody told him so, when his picture was exhibited. Everybody but one. The lady whose opinion he valued most was the one he took to the exhibition with him. "I can hardly wait," she bubbled. "Which is your picture?" "This one," he told her—and waited. She studied it critically. "What is it called?" she wanted to know. "Wood Nymphs." "How silly of me to ask! They're so natural. Why, anybody would think they were really made of wood!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Yesterday afternoon at the close of school the Lawrence Glee club favored the students of the local high school with several beautiful selections. The entertainment was short and consisted of a variety of songs. The club as a whole sang several songs and a quartet rendered a few comic numbers. The songs were all well rendered and were enjoyed by all. This afternoon at the local high school was held the Inter-Class Extemporaneous contest. The classes represented will be the Seniors, Juniors and Sophomores. This contest is to be a preliminary to the regular Extemporaneous Contest for the Recorder Medal held each spring. One week from next Friday evening will occur the regular school contest in oratory, declamatory, extemporaneous speaking, and poetry. The contest will be hotly contested to the very last as several are planning to enter in all the departments. To the winners medals will be awarded. The Lawrence medal to the winner in oratory, the Loomis in declamatory, the Recorder in extemporaneous speaking, and the Mahoney in Poetry.

The Hand Losing Its Cunning.

We learn through a French paper that we are in danger of losing the use of our hands. The assertion is made by a medical authority, and a little reflection will lead us to pause before scolding this theory. Our hands in effect become less cunning and adroit through our availing ourselves of every mechanical appliance at our disposal. In times past women were skillful embroiderers and workers of lace, but the sewing machine has deteriorated the work of the hands and fingers, because, in the case of the mercenary worker, it renders a better return for her labor. It degrades the hands become stubborn, and in time, says the authority before cited, there will be nothing for the ten fingers to do.

Interested in American System.

While visiting Vienna recently, the ex-ambassador of Persia, Mahomet Ali, devoted much time to the inspection of great business and manufacturing establishments, and on one of these tours, made under the guidance of a large manufacturer, and with little Prince Mahomet Mirza, they were joined at the office of a newspaper by an American with whom the ex-ambassador entered into earnest conversation. He was deeply interested in what the American told him about commercial affairs in the United States, but what interested him most, said one of the party, was "our election system, as to which he made searching inquiry."

THEATER

WALTER DANROSCH.

An orchestra that would be always at the call of its conductor for rehearsal or concert has ever seemed in New York the ideal attainable. Today this is the condition of the New York Symphony Orchestra and as it is the only symphony orchestra in New York which can and does and must meet every day for rehearsal or concert, one may justly describe it as holding a position all its own in the musical life of this city.

To the schedule of private rehearsals that published, more have constantly been added. Under the new order of things, rehearsals may be called by the conductor at any moment for any time. In the matter of concert performances in New York and elsewhere, the activity of the New York Symphony Orchestra has increased beyond compare, until it now gives more public performances than any other symphony orchestra in America.

DEPARTMENT STORE RUSH

BUYING SKAVLEM CLUB PIANOS

Did you ever notice how "dead" it looks around the average piano store? How still and grave-like they seem! Let us tell you, it ISN'T DULL AROUND HERE. This store has had the appearance of a department store ever since the SKAVLEM Piano club was announced—it's so busy.

What, with the great success of the SKAVLEM inaugural club, our large REGULAR retail business, our own force of salesmen, and large numbers of persons going and coming, paying on accounts, the store actually takes on the aspect of a department store—notwithstanding this is March, supposedly one of the dullest piano months in the year.

Let Us Again Mention the Essential Features of the Skavlem Piano Club

1. The club is to be composed of 200 members.
2. Over fifty memberships have been taken.
3. The value of the Skavlem club piano is $375.
4. The price to Skavlem club members is $277.50.
5. The terms are $5.00 cash when you join, then $1.25 per week. There is no interest added to this.
6. The piano will be delivered when you join, or later, as you wish.
7. The weekly payments of $1.25 begin when the piano is delivered.
8. Every instrument is guaranteed without reserve—for ten years. There are no "ifs" or "ands" in the guarantee—just a straight-out guarantee as strong as we know how to make it in writing.
9. If, after 30 days' trial, the piano is not satisfactory, we will give you your money back.
10. If the piano is satisfactory after 30 days' use, the club member has eleven more months in which to satisfy himself as to the character of the piano. If it does not prove to be everything that he expects, he has the privilege of exchanging it without one penny's loss for any other instrument of equal or greater value that we sell.
11. If a club member dies during the life of his contract we will immediately send a receipt in full to his family for the instrument.
12. A beautiful stool and scarf to match the piano are included without extra cost.
13. The piano will be tuned twice without charge.

For the convenience of people who cannot come in during the day the store will be open every evening until 10 o'clock.

You have only to come here and examine the Club Piano to satisfy yourself that you are purchasing a wonderfully good instrument at a remarkably low price.

This piano is infinitely superior to most that are sold in this section of the country at $400 and even $450.

The tone is rich and singing in quality; the scale

DISCOVER REAL MOTIVE

NEW THEORY AIDS BOOKER T. WASHINGTON.

Negro Educator's Lawyer Asserts His Client Was Mistaken for Kidnaper by Assailant's Wife.

New York, March 23.—Booker T. Washington's lawyer, Wilford H. Smith, declares that he has discovered what he called "the real motive" for the attack on the negro educator in front of 11½ West Sixty-third street on last Sunday night.

He declared Mrs. Albert Ulrich, the woman who says Doctor Washington spoke to her, mistook him for a negro who had tried to steal her six-year-old daughter two or three weeks ago. She told Ulrich, so Lawyer Smith says, that "that same negro" was hanging around the apartment house on Sunday night. The hearing followed.

The lawyer also asserted that on the strength of new evidence he has turned up regarding the episode he will ask District Attorney Whitman to try to have Ulrich indicted for felonious assault.

Smith said two or three witnesses would swear Doctor Washington did not enter the apartment house beyond the vestibule and, therefore, could not have attempted to peep into anybody's flat, and that at least one witness will tell about the hearing as she saw it from an upper window of the same house.

Who these witnesses are Mr. Smith said he couldn't say at present.

Felonious assault was the original charge against Ulrich that Doctor Washington made in the police station after his experience. When the case came up in the west side court on Tuesday the felony charge had been changed to one of simple assault and Ulrich was let go in $500 bail.

SOCIALIST'S LOSE PRIMARY

Milwaukee School Election Indicates That Party Is Rapidly Losing Votes in Own Wards.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 23.—An analysis of Monday's vote for nominees for school directors at the primary election in Milwaukee shows a falling off in the Socialist vote as compared with the primary a year ago, when Emil Gelgel was endorsed as the candidate for mayor.

Only two out of four Socialist candidates were nominated and these ran sixth and ninth on the list of ten.

James H. Derse, who led the non-partisan candidates, received 14,023 votes, while Jacob H. Hubin, Socialist, finished in sixth place, with but 6,223 votes to his credit.

The falling off of the Socialists in their wards was the surprise of the election.

Society women registered more votes in proportion to the men than did their sisters in the poorer wards. It is estimated that out of approximately 25,000 votes cast, 5,000 were deposited by the fair sex.

CLAIMS HE IS "IRENE"

SHERARD, ENGLISH AUTHOR, SAYS WIFE'S NOVELS ARE HIS.

Runs Former Miss Osgood of America—Declares She Treated Him Like a Dog.

London, March 23.—Horses, pigs, cats, manuscripts of plays and stories, and earlier divorce papers figured largely, to the amusement of the audience, at the trial of a suit brought in the county court at Northampton by the English author, Robert Harborough Sherard, against his wife, the American authoress, Irene Osgood.

A suit for separation brought by the wife is pending and the husband in the present action says that she took the animals and things mentioned, all he possessed, and so left him stranded.

After hearing both stories in detail the presiding judge decided that the defendant must return to her husband one horse, six pigs and one cat, and the manuscripts in dispute, or pay him $210. Mrs. Sherard promptly entered an appeal from the judgment.

Sherard, describing his life at Gillingham Hall, in Northampton, which is the property of his wife, referred to the home as "My Calvary." He had been treated like a dog, he declared, and three thrown out of the place.

"I am 'Irene Osgood,'" he shouted dramatically. "I wrote everything that she is supposed to have written in the last five years." He swore that Irene had given him $500 to be used in procuring a divorce from his wife so that he could marry her.

Mrs. Sherard, who is the author of "To a Nun Confessed" and "Servitude" and possesses an income of between $20,000 and $30,000 a year, entered the witness box and described how she met Sherard at Cannes, France.

He was practically without funds, and she gave him, she said, $500 with which to buy clothes. She did not know at the time that he had been married previously and was not aware of the situation until a few days after their wedding, when she discovered his divorce papers. Suspecting his alliance with her was illegal, she took possession of these documents. She denied that her husband had written any of the works attributed to her.

DEADLOCK NOT FOR CROKER

New York, March 23.—Back in New York, the picture of health, after his annual "training" in the south, Richard Croker declared that he will accept no challenges to tackle the United States senatorial deadlock at Albany.

"Of course it is true," he said, "that this deadlock is hurting the party. The longer it lasts the more harm it will do. It should be understood that the party is now to be considered than any one individual. But nobody will be able to drag me into this fight."

Locomotive Engineer Has Remarkable Experience.

I have been thinking that word from me would benefit those who may be suffering as I was before I began taking your Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. I am a locomotive engineer, employed on the Tyrone & Clearfield branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Three years ago I was afflicted with kidney and bladder trouble so bad that I was compelled to lay off duty from my engine and was in the care of two doctors. However their medicine did not touch it. One day, I noticed your advertisement for a sample bottle of Swamp-Root.

At this time my trouble had reached such a serious stage that it was with great difficulty that I could urinate. I sent for the sample bottle and in three days received a small bottle of Swamp-Root, which I took according to directions, and by the time I had taken the contents, I could pass water more freely. I was so pleased with my experience that I sent my wife to the drug store of W. H. Miller, Philadelphia, Pa., and secured a one-dollar bottle. I continued taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root until I was entirely cured. Now whenever I feel any pain or soreness after being exposed to bad weather or hard work, I take a dose or two of Swamp-Root. I cannot recommend this remedy too highly, especially to brother engineers who are more or less troubled with their kidneys (more than any other class of men).

The Mississippi Golf Club has reason to be proud of its grounds and of its club house and the citizens generally have the same feeling even though all may not be members. It's one of the city's show places and it alone has been the means of several wealthy Chicago people purchasing summer homes near its location. Its grounds are kept in splendid condition and every day during the season finds many visitors in attendance.

SCIENCE OF "WOOLING"

COURTSHIP MOST INTERESTING STUDY IN LIFE'S STORY.

Love Signals Tooted on Locomotive Whistle Cause Much Commotion in New Jersey Town—How Boston Gallant Won.

The science of wooling has always been the queerest study of mankind and courtship has always been the most interesting subject of consideration in the curriculum of life.

Several months ago the Improvement association of Edgewater Park, N. J., bitterly complained against the whistle whistles of passing locomotives. It was figured out that at least 800 toots a day were the total for regular trains which passed through the town. Men stationed near the line by the association discovered that one train which passed three times a day was the principal offender. The attention of the watchmen was first attracted to this train when, on slackening speed near a house at the east end of town, the locomotive whistle indulged in a wild and variable program of whistles that seemed to have no particular railway significance.

Subsequent investigation brought to light the interesting fact that the engineer's sweetheart lived in the house near the line and that some such love signal schedule as this had been arranged between the girl and her wooer: "Two short blasts, 'I am coming'; three short blasts, 'Throw me a kiss'; one long blast, 'A kiss from me'; two long blasts, 'I love you'."

When the young woman appeared at the window and waved to her lover the latter would answer with a series of whistle toots which would have put a circus band to shame.

Not long ago there was printed in the newspapers a story of the way in which a Boston gallant had won the hand of his stenographer. Although it was evident to the wooer that the young woman did not regard him entirely without favor, he found it extremely difficult to get her to listen to his plan. The girl refused to lunch, sup or to go to the theater with her admirer.

Finding every avenue of approach blocked, the determined wooer, who possessed some literary faculty, wrote a short love story, in which the girl and he were the leading figures. This story he sent to the stenographer every morning for a month and ordered her to typewrite it for him. She dared not refuse to do as her employer commanded and, realizing through the story that he would never give up until she married him, she finally acquiesced.

Analogous to the persistence of this wooer was that of a man in Detroit who won a Cleveland bride through the conveniently relentless postoffice. Every day for eight months he sent the girl he loved a postcard with a single capital letter written thereon. At the end of each eight days the series of cards spelled, "I love you."

A prize for unconventionality in courtship should certainly be awarded to the Baltimore street-car conductor who wooed and won a housemaid who worked in one of the residences along the line on which he was assigned to duty. The maid knew the approximate times when her lover's car would pass the house, and jiggled her household tasks in such a manner that she would be at one of the front windows at the right time.

Nothing Unusual.
"A man was robbed while riding in a taxicab the other day."
"Did he seem surprised?"
"Yes."
"He must be a greenhorn."

An Indication Previous.
"Do you notice a tendency on the part of some Democrats to be too previous with a candidate in the field?"
"What's that?"
"They want to enter the race with a Furat in the field."

BENJ. D. GREENE FREE

FINISHES FOUR-YEAR TERM FOR HARBOR COMPLICITY.

Takes Pauper's Oath Which Releases Him From His Portion of $575,000 Fine.

Atlanta, Ga., March 23.—Benjamin D. Greene, who, with John P. Gaylor, has just completed a four-year term in the federal prison here for complicity in the Savannah harbor improvement frauds, was released, bringing to a close, so far as he is concerned, a legal battle that has commanded attention for the last decade.

Greene's application for leave to take the pauper's oath in order to escape further liabilities for the $575,000 fine imposed on the two men when they were convicted was granted after a hearing which lasted two days.

John P. Gaylor, jointly convicted with Greene, has completed his sentence in the federal prison. His application to take the pauper's oath is pending.

The case of the government against Greene and Gaylor was one of the most unusual in the annals of American jurisprudence. More than a decade ago these two were engaged in a contractual million dollar improvement work in Savannah harbor, under the supervision of Capt. Oberlin M. Carter.

Trouble began when Carter was appointed military attaché at the court of St. James. The army officer who succeeded him, Capt. Cassius E. Gillette, found evidence of fraud in the work, which resulted in a three months' court-martial for Carter, a fine, a term in Leavenworth prison, and, ultimately, in the confiscation by the government of money he was alleged to have secured through the harbor frauds.

Greene and Gaylor were indicted in December, 1889. The case did not come to trial in Savannah until March 6, 1902. There was an immediate recess of a few days, during which the defendants went to Canada. The extradition laws did not apply to their case and for about three years they lived in Quebec, until on the grounds of courtesy and friendship the British government agreed to surrender the fugitives.

Trial at Savannah began October 9, 1905, lasting until April 13, 1906, when they were convicted of embezzlement and sentenced to four years' imprisonment each, and jointly to pay a fine of $575,000.

GIANT SHIPS.

The largest ship in the world has just been launched and will soon be plowing the seas. Its name is the Olympic, and its sister ship, the Titanic, of equal size, will speedily follow. Either is certainly a Titan for strength and size and capacity and power.

The Olympic is a ship of no less than sixteen tons burden. If its inner spaces were unoccupied by furnishings of various kinds thirty great freight trains of 100 cars each could be drawn to her wharf and their entire load be deposited in her hull.

The maximum draft of this monster ship is thirty-seven and a half feet. Her length is 882½ feet. Set up on end, she would, of course, dwarf all the highest skyscrapers in New York.

The ship's beam measures ninety-two and a half feet. Five eighteen-foot houses could occupy this space. The horsepower is 45,000, and the speed is calculated at 21 knots. The problem of dockage for growing ships will soon be serious.

Grim Consolation.
"John, old boy," said the sick man to the attendant, "I want you to go out and fetch me another minister."
"Why, you've had a preacher with you all the mornin'."
"That's just it," gasped the man. "He thought he was cheerin' me up and he told me I'd meet my three wives in heaven!"

Suicide is less prevalent in Ireland than in any other country in the world.

"What are you laughing so uproariously about?"
"My wife kicked a chair in the dark last night and nearly knocked one of her toes off."
"Well, this is a funny time to laugh about it."
"Yes, and a safe time."

Ultra Refinement.
"Mrs. Jobbies is extremely sensitive about her manners. What do you think she said the other day when I advised her to use crude petroleum as a polish?"
"What did she say?"
"How could I expect she would use as a polish anything so unrefined?"

WOMAN'S PAGE

To Our Women Readers.

IT IS VERY evident that the women readers of the Gazette are interested in seeing this paper made the best possible medium for information that can be. Last Saturday the Gazette first published in this space a request to the women readers to express their views on the subject and so much interest has been displayed that it has been decided to increase the prizes to four, making the first prize a Caloric Fireless Cookstove.

The letters received thus far have been full of excellent suggestions as to the making of this page, and even other pages in the paper, more pleasing to the readers. There has been some confusion, however, owing to the list of subjects which were printed. The writers of the articles do not need to confine themselves to the subjects suggested, but can write on any phase of the paper's make-up that they may desire. The list is given merely to suggest a topic for you to write on.

Remember that each article must be plainly written on one side of the paper only and confined to about one hundred words. They must be in the Gazette office by April 1, and should be addressed to the "Feature Editor." If mailed, a two-cent stamp should be placed on the envelope to insure prompt delivery.

The Gazette is anxious to obtain your views on the subject of making its columns more interesting to you and all other women readers, so do not hesitate to express your individual opinions. The Gazette wants you to take a special interest in the paper you read daily by helping to make it more interesting.

Remember the prizes offered for the best four articles on this subject.

FIRST PRIZE—CALORIC FIRELESS COOKSTOVE.
SECOND PRIZE—$3.00 IN MONEY.
THIRD PRIZE—$3.00 IN MONEY.
FOURTH PRIZE—$2.00 IN MONEY.

Have your answers in the Gazette office as early as possible and not later than April 1.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

HAVE a story in three chapters to tell you today.

CHAPTER I.

Eleanor and Katherine had been chums from primary school days. All through grammar school and high school they had walked to and from school together and had done their lessons, today at Eleanor's home, tomorrow at Katherine's. Two chums of the opposite sex had obligingly become comrades of the twain and had "hooked" them to most of the high school parties in cozy foursoines.

Then Eleanor went to college and Katherine stayed at home, but if anyone thought that would break up the friendship he was much mistaken. The two girls corresponded as regularly as plighted lovers all through the school year, and the first day of vacation found them linked arm in arm, and thus they remained all summer.

Then Eleanor graduated and came home to live, and the following June Katherine and Eleanor crowned the Damon and Pythias act by announcing their engagements on the same day.

The fiancées, although not the two high school swains, were obliging enough to be very good friends, so the foursome continued through the engagement.

Katherine was married in September, Eleanor in November. Katherine and her husband boarded the first few months until Eleanor had returned from her honeymoon. Then, as neither of the grooms was overjoyed with the world's goods, no one was much surprised when the word went round that the four were going to homes.

keeping together in a much nicer house than either couple could have afforded alone.

CHAPTER II.

I'm not going to write this chapter, you see, I don't really know much about it. So I'm just going to leave you to infer it, as I do, from what I know is apt to happen when any two families, however congenial, attempt to live together.

CHAPTER III.

The third chapter is simply that Eleanor and Katherine now live at opposite ends of the town and are barely "speech-friends."

Do you think that any two families, however congenial, can live together and have as much peace and harmony in the home as if each had an impregnable castle of its own?

I don't.

The families may be closely linked by relationship—they may consist of father and mother and married daughter's family—or of two married sisters, or of a son and wife and his father and mother, and they may be the most congenial and affectionate people in the world, but the moment you put two heads of a house in one house you set a trouble going to work.

There may never be any open friction, but I don't believe there will ever be the complete happiness and home satisfaction and harmony around that hearth that there is about the hearth where the housemates are all members of one family.

I don't even believe it is good policy for two related or every intimate families to live in two apartments in the same house.

Now that may sound overstated, but it is the testimony of many, many people whose wisdom is not of theory, but of experience.

Perhaps you think that all this is overstated—you who are contemplating some similar move—doubtless you think YOU can get along with people whom you love. All this may be true as a rule, you say, but YOUR case is different, YOU and YOUR friends are peculiarly congenial.

Maybe so, maybe so—but, please remember, my friends—"that's what they all say."

Lenten Dishes.

During the Lenten season a few salads and fish combinations may be acceptable. The following are all choice and tried recipes.

Lenten Salad.—A most attractive salad may be prepared by using the cream cheese molded in balls or egg shapes around a peanut, then roll in finely chopped parsley. Serve on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise dressing.

Salmon Loaf.—Take a pound can of salmon, remove all bones and skin and rub with two tablespoonfuls of butter, add two eggs well beaten, a fourth of a cup of bread crumbs, a fourth of a cup of cream, half a teaspoon of minced parsley, salt and cayenne pepper to taste. Mix thoroughly and steam 40 minutes.

Salmon Sauce.—Use the liquor from the salmon, add a tablespoonful of butter, half a cup of milk, boil and thicken with one teaspoon of cornstarch diluted with two tablespoonfuls of cold milk. When cold add tomato catsup and pepper and salt.

Normandy Salad.—Cut three cucumbers in cubes, add three hard-boiled eggs cut in pieces, one cup of minced olives, three-fourths of a cup of nutmeats. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

Cheese Salad.—Mix Neufchatel or Waukesha cheese thinned with cream with chopped green peppers, chives or onions and nuts. Serve on lettuce or in bowls of cream.

Western Salad.—Take one cup of canned peas, four tablespoonfuls each of chopped onion, sweet pickled cucumber or watermelon and chopped cheese; mix all together lightly, with four chopped eggs, hard-boiled. Serve out two of the yolks, put them through a ricer and decorate the top. Any boiled dressing may be used to serve with this salad.

WHO IS THE BAD BOY?

The bad boy—who is he? When you talk about the bad boy do you mean the mischievous boy, or the vicious boy? Practically all boys are mischievous, but there are very few bad boys.

Of course nearly every boy that is a real boy likes to tease something. If it isn't the cat and dog, he teases the girls and younger children, and, perhaps, the older people of the neighborhood. But when it comes to being downright bad—vicious—that's another story.

Boys—healthy, normal boys—seem to be veritable storage batteries of energy. Now if this energy isn't used up in one way it is in another. If the boy isn't given some profitable direction in his play and his work, he's bound to use up his surplus energy in mischievousness, and thereby win for himself the unenviable designation of the "bad boy." But the worst of it is that he soon begins to like the name and tries to live up to it by being the terror of the neighborhood.

You can't make a boy work all the time and expect him to keep good and happy. You can't let a boy play all of the time and expect him to have a well-developed personality. There must be a discreet combination of work and play with the right kind of direction given to both.

The boy should be given some household duty to perform from the time he is big enough to understand directions. It doesn't hurt the baby to know where to put his father's slippers or where to get them when father wants them. It doesn't hurt him to learn to pick up his playthings and put them away when he is through with them. It doesn't hurt him to wait on mother, even if it is only to get her a drink of water or a spoon of cream.

It certainly doesn't hurt him when he grows older to understand that he is responsible for the appearance of the walls both summer and winter. It doesn't hurt him to stir the ashes, see that the kitching supply is kept full and that the kitchen coal box is kept full. And when he grows a little older, to look after the furnace in the winter, and to keep the garden and the lawn up to a high standard of perfection in the summer time. And it doesn't hurt him to learn to wash dishes, sweep the floors, scrub on bathtubs and to learn his handiwork or any other task that will take part of the burden out of his mother's work-a-day world. No boy can be feminized by being made helpful.

Then give him the proper season of play. Keep the appeal to his mindfulness ever before him and there isn't much danger of his being either a "sissy" or a "bully." He'll quite likely develop into an earnest likeable man.

But the bad boy—he is a scorch. There is the misdirected boy who only needs a little attention from someone who knows how to reach a boy's heart and a boy's sympathies. That's all. And the heart of a boy is a wonderful thing—a tremendous thing, everything considered. It's worth reaching.

Latest Thing in Clubs.

HAWAIIAN PRINCESS TO MARRY JAY GOULD.
MISS ANNA GRAHAM.

New York.—Miss Anna Graham, who is to marry Jay Gould on April 29, is, as this photograph shows, a young woman of vivacious charm. She is the only daughter of Mrs. Hubert Vos, by the first husband of the latter, John L. Graham. Miss Graham's grandfather was an Englishman who had settled in Hawaii, and her grandmother was a member of the Hawaiian royal family. Consequently Miss Graham's mother is Princess Kaiulani and a cousin of ex-Queen Liliuokalani. She is now the wife of the Dutch painter, Hubert Vos.

DECORATIONS FOR BRASS BED

Idea That Makes for Comfort and Adds to Appearance of Room.

Brass beds look charming and attractive and often brighten an otherwise dark bedroom, but many people complain that they are far colder than an ordinary wooden bed that has a high head and footboard to protect them from drafts. To overcome this objection a clever woman devised a scheme which not only corrected this defect, but also added a decorative note to the room.

The hangings and window seat were made of gray chintz, having garlands of pink roses scattered over the surface. She bought more of this material and made covers that slipped easily over the brass rods at the head and foot of the bed. These were finished at the bottom with dainty frills of the material. A frill was also fastened around the mattress, which showed beneath the bedspread.

The covers were found not only to add much to the physical comfort, but were also useful in protecting the brass from the usual dents and scratches that are apt to come with the daily wear and tear of a much used room.

They were made to be removed easily if required for special occasions.

Roman Coins Found in England. The process of cleaning the coins found a few weeks ago in a Roman vase in a field upon a farm at Edwinstown, Nottinghamshire, England, shows that they comprise 269 denarii, dating from 69 to 192 A. D. Although these coins must have been buried for 17 centuries, they are in a perfect state of preservation.

LOCAL POSTOFFICE MAY CLOSE SUNDAY

May Be Effective At Once But Postmaster Valentine Has Received No Orders

For the first time in years the carrier windows at the local post office may be closed on Sunday next. Dispatches in the newspapers indicate that such an order has gone out from Washington, but thus far Postmaster Valentine has received no official word relative to the matter. The following dispatch from Chicago shows what the petitions for closing that office did and it is effective on Sunday next.

Chicago, March 22.—For the first time in the history of the Chicago post office no mail will be given out on next Sunday in order to give the clerks a rest. Word was received to this effect from Washington today, after an extended mail vote.

Washington Dispatch. The Washington dispatch is as follows: Washington, March 22.—Sunday work in postoffices throughout the country is to be discontinued so far as is consistent with the facilities of the transmission of mail.

It is not proposed to close important postoffices entirely on Sunday. Certain work to prevent congestion and delay of mail must be done. Mails will be sent and dispatched as heretofore and arrangements will be made for a limited delivery through the general delivery windows, and the distribution of mail to boxes will be continued.

Special delivery letters will be delivered and patrons of any office will be afforded the privilege of having their mail delivered on Sunday by depositing the required fee for special delivery service.

Postmaster General Hitchcock yesterday issued instructions designed to carry into effect these ideas and to afford employees of the postal service one day's rest.

In order to afford the letter carriers time for rest the present system of delivering mail through the carrier windows, which requires the attendance of about one-half of the carriers for three or four hours on Sunday, will be discontinued.

Expected Notice. Postmaster Valentine said this morning that he expected official notice by tomorrow relative to the matter and that all he knew of the matter was that he had seen in the newspapers. If the order comes it will have the same influence as would have been accomplished had the post office been closed. He said he had seen in the newspapers that the mail clerks will not have to work, but the carrier windows will be closed.

PAST SEASON WAS MOST SUCCESSFUL

Local High School Basketball Team Has Had An Envyable Record of Achievement for This Year.

That the basketball season of the local high school team has proved a success is evident to anyone who takes the pains to glance over their schedule. Out of a total schedule of eleven games, all were won but the first game of the season, and that was lost to Beloit, a team which had been organized for over a month previous.

For the past two years Coach Knudson has had charge of the athletic teams of the high school and never has failed to turn out a winning team. Last year his quintet was strong enough to enter the interstate tournament at Madison but it lost the entry to the state tournament at Appleton. This year he has turned out an even stronger aggregation and they will go to Appleton.

But all the credit must not go to Coach Knudson for he had the best of material to work with. The team has been led in all its battles by a brilliant and able leader, Capt. Hemmeling. Hemmeling played in the position of center and never failed his team when they were hard pressed. Koral played in the position of left forward and no guard was able to prevent his eagling his share of the baskets.

Cunningham, the right forward was a good shot and if the ball was in his hands, two points could always be added to the score.

Editor and Brown, left and right guards, respectively, were stars. They were invaluable and their work was always a feature of the games.

With this for a lineup the Flower City high school has gained significant success and all that they now want is the state championship.

The schedule this year has been a heavy one. All high school teams in the immediate locality were defeated to the tune of some large scores. Then in order to gain entrance to the state tournament they won from teams from far and near, all with the same success.

The local high school has a right to be proud of her team this year which has attained such distinction. Of the five players this year, two, Hemmeling and Brown, leave with the graduating class. The three which are left will form a strong nucleus for the next year's team.

Growth of Insanity. Our strenuous life, high living and self-indulgence produce an increasing number of mentally defective each year. In every community of 250 persons in New York state, there is one insane person. During the last decade insanity has grown faster than the population. At present there are 32,658 persons in New York state known to be insane, all except 150 of them being in state institutions. Doubtless there are hundreds besides, whose residence has been in this state, who are now in private sanitariums in adjacent states.

Unmarried Women in Cities. In Chicago, out of every 1,000 women in the age period from 25 to 34, at the last count, there were 214 who were unmarried. In Denver there were 331. In Manhattan and the Bronx there were 358. In Minneapolis there were 268. In Philadelphia there were 257.

NEW AUTOMOBILES
HERE THIS YEAR

Several New Cars To Be Seen in Jamesville This Season.—First Electric Brougham Has Arrived.

The arrival here yesterday of the new electric Brougham lately purchased by Fred A. Canale marks the first of its kind to be owned in this city. The machine is a Wanda "Electric" of the Brougham model, and is beautifully finished both on the interior and exterior. The car is of blue enamel finish and is upholstered inside in heavy leather. The interior equipment is of the latest and includes small electric lights, card cases and time pieces. The workmanship throughout the whole machine is of the best and the purchase price was $2,500.

Several other new cars of this year's model have been purchased in the city and are expected at any time. Arthur J. Harris is to have a forty-five horse power Carlin of the seven passenger type. George W. Hroese is awaiting the shipment of a Ford car, four passenger, and Dr. Fred H. Welch has bought a two passenger runabout of the same make. Several of the Wanda cars are said to have been sold here also.

Agents for the smaller cars are doing a large business, not only in this city but in the surrounding country. The Maxwell and Ford two passenger cars are in much demand and several shipments have already arrived here.

SPLENDID CONCERT BY LAWRENCE CLUB

Exceptionally Fine Musical Program Was Enjoyed by Good Sized Audience at Methodist Church.

With a program of excellent selections the Lawrence College Glee club entertained a good sized audience at the Methodist church last evening.

The club was especially well balanced and is composed of twenty-eight members all of special abilities. From the opening selection the "Lawrence Alma Mater," in which the club burst forth in a volume of melody to the last "Serenade" it was a program of rare artistic ability. Not only did the club secure volume but with almost perfect control they rendered "Stars of the Summer Night" and other pieces with excellent expression.

Several comic selections were sung which were thoroughly enjoyed and which after encore was responded to. The quartette composed of Messrs. Nixon, Campbell, Leck and Quayle gave several fine selections and a duet, "The Hunting Song" by Ballard, was also very good.

Five members of the club are students of the Lawrence conservatory of music and the others are chosen to sing in the club for special abilities which have been brought out by a series of try-outs. One of the second years, George Reynolds, is a Jamesville boy and a graduate of the local high school.

Jamesville was the tenth place visited on the itinerary this year which covers nearly every section of the state and will occupy a period of three weeks. This is one of the most successful tours of the club as well as one of the longest.

At the end of the musical program a college comedy, "The Troubles of Teddy," was given. It was a playlet setting forth some of the pranks and problems of college life and was duly presented.

Some lady will get a sewing machine free next Saturday. It may be you, call and get a red coupon free chance. Frank D. Kimball.

WOUNDED YEGGMEN MAKE THEIR ESCAPE

Robbers Blow Safe And Are Attacked by Citizens But Get Away Safely.

Gahanna, Ohio, March 22.—With two of their wounded companions with them five yeggmens today blew the postoffice safe and are now being followed by a posse and bloodhounds. The yeggs fought a body of armed citizens while doing their work and two were wounded.

His Narrow Escape. After 18 years' work as a medical missionary in Labrador, Dr. Wilfred Grenfell has been spending a short holiday at Parkgate, Cheshire. He has had several adventures. The most exciting was when an iceberg broke apart and carried him out to sea with a few dogs. No help was at hand, and the only chance of rescue was from a passing steamer. Fortunately he had a little food, but this was too precious to give to the dogs, and it was necessary to kill one so that the others would not starve. The cold became so intense that two other dogs had to be killed and their skins used for warmth. The berg then drifted into a shipping route, and Dr. Grenfell was rescued in the nick of time by a steamer.

SETTLED THE CASE BY CASH PAYMENT

Line City Defendant in a Damage Suit Pays $1500 to Avoid Further Litigation.

Through her attorneys, Carpenter and Carpenter of this city, Mrs. Ellen Persons of Beloit received a settlement of her claim against the City of Beloit in a personal injury suit. Mrs. Persons was handed a check for $1500 in lieu of further litigation on the subject. The plaintiff in the action is a daughter of the late Michael Cronin of this city, whose mysterious death two years ago has never been solved, and is the wife of William Persons, whom old timers will remember as one of the best known drivers when the fair grounds track was the scene of fast horse racing and training. Mrs. Persons' testimony was recently taken at her bedside, Judge Rosa of the Beloit court transferring his court to her bedroom for that purpose.

CHICAGO COMPANY TO MOVE FACTORY

Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. Which Considered Offer From Jamesville, Will Put Up Big Plant At Dubuque.

Announcement is made that the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company of Chicago, manufacturers of pool and billiard ball supplies, will move one half of its present manufacturing department to Dubuque, Ia., where it has purchased land and will erect a factory covering seventeen and one half acres of ground. The company recently increased its capital stock from one million to twelve million dollars and began negotiations for the location of a factory outside of the Windy City. Jamesville was given a chance to secure the factory and make offers for the plant, but the inducements here were not considered favorable enough by the officials of the concern. One thousand men will be employed at the new plant. The reason for the change is said to be the difficulty in securing labor.

Prosperity smiles upon the business of the Law-Watson Shoe company of this city, recently organized by the consolidation of the Western Shoe company and the F. M. Marzuff company. Orders are pouring in daily and at present the factory cannot supply the demand made for its products. Security of labor in several branches of the factory, however, prevents that plant from running up to its full capacity.

The M. D. Wells Shoe company of Fond du Lac is being dissolved through the settlement of the estate of the late M. D. Wells and will discontinue the manufacture of shoes. The company at one time considered choosing Jamesville for the location of its factory, but finally selected Fond du Lac.

CHAPTER V.

The Goulin Night.
Amber whistled low. "Impossible!" he said thoughtfully.

Rutton had crossed to and was bending over a small leather trunk that stood in one corner of the room. In the act of opening it, he glanced over his shoulder. "What?" he demanded sharply.

"I was only thinking: there's something I can't see through in the low-bell's willingness to go."

"He was afraid to stay."

"Why?"

Rutton, rummaging in the trunk, made no reply. After a moment Amber resumed.

"You know what Bengalla was; that fellow'd do anything, brave any ordinary danger, rather than try to cross that way; which, in fact, he really came to doubt. On the other hand, he's intelligent enough to know that a night like this in the dunes would kill him. Well, what then?"

Rutton was not listening. As Amber concluded he seemed to find what he had been seeking, thrust it hurriedly into the breast-pocket of his coat, and with a muttered word, unintelligible, dashed to the door and flung it open and himself out.

With a shriek of demonic gloom the wind entered into and took possession of the room. A cloud of snow swept across the floor like a veil. The door battered against the wall as if trying to break it down. The cheap tin kerosene lamp jumped as though caught by a hand; its flame leapt high and blue above the chimney—and was not. In darkness but for the fitful flare of the fire that had been dying in embers on the hearth, Amber, seeking the doorway, fell over a chair, blundered flat into the wall, and stumbled unexpectedly out of the house.

His concern was all for Rutton; he had no other thought. He ran a little way down the hollow, heartless with horror and cold with dread. Then he paused, bewildered. Whether in that whirling world Rutton might have wandered, it was impossible to surmise. In despair the Virginian turned back.

When he had found his way to the door of the cabin, it was closed; as he entered and shut it behind him, a match flared and expired in the middle of the room, and a man cursed brokenly.

"Rutton!" cried Amber in a flash of hope.

"Is that you, Mr. Amber? Thank Gawd! Write a minute."

A second match spluttered, its flame washing in the pink cup of Doggott's hands.

He succeeded in setting fire to the wick. The light showed him barefoot and shivering in shirt and trousers.

"For pity's sake, sir, what's happened?"

"It's hard to say," replied Amber vaguely, preoccupied. He went immediately to a window and stood there, looking out.

"But where's Mr. Rutton, sir?"

"Gone—out there—I don't know just where." Amber moved back to the table. "You saw he had a caller."

"A caller, sir—on a night like this?"

"The man he came here to hide from," said Amber.

"I know 'e was tryin' to dodge something," sir; but 'e never told me what it was. What kind of a person was 'e, sir, and what made Mr. Rutton go awy with 'im?"

"He didn't; he went after him to . . ."

Amber caught his tongue on the verge of an indelicacy; no matter what his fears, they were not yet become a suitable subject for discussion with Rutton's servant. "I think," he amended lamely, "he had forgotten something."

"And 'e's out there now! My Gawd, what a night!" He hung in hesitation for a little. "I'd 'e wear 'is topcoat and 'at, sir?"

"No! He went suddenly. I don't think he intended to be gone long."

"I'd better go after 'im, then. 'E'll 'ave pneumonia. I'll just jump into me clothes and—"

He slipped into the back room, to reappear with surprisingly little delay, fully dressed and buttoning a long water proof raincoat.

"You didn't 'appen to notice which way 'e went, sir?"

"As well as I could judge, to the west."

lous. The very mediocrity of the surroundings seemed to discredit the testimony of his wit.

In a setting so hopelessly commonplace and everyday, one set of a drama of blood and fire had been played; into these mean premises the breath of the storm, as the babe entered, had blown romance. . . . Incredible!

And yet Amber's hand, dropping idly in his coat-pocket, encountered a priceless witness to the reality of what had passed. Frowning, troubled, he drew forth the ring and slipped it upon his finger; rays of blinding emerald light concentrated from it, dazzling him. With a low cry of wonder he took it to the lamplight. Never had he looked upon so fine a stone, so strangely cut.

It was set in ruddy soft gold, worked and graven with exquisite art in the semblance of a two-headed cobra; inside the band was an inscription so worn and faint that Amber experienced some difficulty in deciphering the word lao (king) in Pinyin. . . . Amber turned, thrilling, his flesh creeping with the horror that he had divided in Rutton's transfixed gaze.

Outside the glass, that was lightly silvered with frost, something moved—the spectral shadow of a turbaned head—moved and was stationary for the space of 20 heartbeats. Beneath the turban Amber seemed to see two eyes, wide staring and terribly sight.

"Gawd!" cried Rutton thickly, jerking forth his pistol.

The shadow vanished.

With a single thought Amber sprang upon Rutton, snatched the weapon from his nerveless fingers, and, leaping to the door, let himself out.

The snow had ceased; only the wind raved with untempered force. Cautiously, and, to be frank, a bit dismayed, Amber made a reconnaissance, circling the building, but discovered nothing to reward his pains. Only, before the window, through which he had seen the peering turbaned head, he found the impressions of two feet, rather deep and definite, toes pointing toward the house, as though some one had lingered there, looking in. The sight of them reassured him ridiculously.

"At least," he reflected, "dismembered spirits leave no footprints!"

He found Rutton precisely as he had left him, his very attitude an unuttered question.

"No," Amber told him, "he'd made a quick getaway. The marks of his feet were plain enough, outside the window, but he was gone, and . . . somehow I wasn't over keen to follow him up."

"Right," said the older man dejectedly. "I might have known Chatterbox would not have come alone. So my rifle was futile." He spoke without spirit, as if completely fagged, and moved slowly to the door.

"David, a little while ago I promised to ask your aid if ever the time should come when I might be free to do so; I said, 'That hour will never strike.' Yet already it is here; I need you. Will you help me?"

"You know that."

"I know. . . . One moment's patience, David." Rutton glanced at the clock. "Time for my medicine," he said; "that heart trouble I mentioned."

He drew from a waistcoat pocket a small silver tube, or phial, and, uncorking this, measured out a certain number of drops into a silver spoon. As he swallowed the dose the phial slipped from his fingers and rang upon the hearthstone, spilling its contents in the ashes. A pungent and heady odor flavored the air.

"No matter," said Rutton indifferently. "I shall need it again for some time." He picked up and restored the phial to his pocket. "Now let me think a bit." He took a quick turn up the room and down again.

Bubble Fountain Attracts.

One of the most attractive of the advertising features of the Brussels exposition is a soap bubble fountain, which has been designed and built by a prominent soap manufacturing concern of Europe. It is the only one in existence. It produces a continual flow of bubbles, delightfully colored, in which all the delicate hues of the rainbow are to be found. When illuminated at night the effect produced by the multi-colored electric lights completes a sight which appeals strongly to the artistic mind. The general appearance gives the illusion of a flowing mass of sparkling diamonds. The fountain produces 15,000 bubbles a minute, and 25,344,000 bubbles are obtained from a pound of soap.

Canada Cavalry Lacks Mounts.

"Canada is thirty-three thousand remnants short of mobilization, and England is 238,000 short," said John F. Ryan of Montreal, general manager of the Canadian national bureau of breeding. "Not long since I visited the army posts in western Canada, and nearly all of the mounted regiments I saw came to camp very weak, and in no case approaching their establishment. This is due to the scarcity of horses, and while heavy farm horses and draft horses are bred in abundance, the cavalry horse is getting scarce."

Origin of Familiar Terms.

Much history is written in the ordinary words of the language. "Tabby," for example. This very domestic-sounding word for the Arabian designation of a quarter of Baghdad famous for its manufacture of dyed colored silks and cottons—a quarter named after "Attab," the great-grandson of Omeyya. "Tabby" appears in English literature in the first half of the seventeenth century as the general term for striped tawny silks. In the same century "tabby" is applied to a striped or brindled cat. In the eighteenth century, to an "elderly maiden lady." The sense development of this word is in striking contrast with that of another old Arab, "tar," which came in the sixteenth century, meaning a "multiplication table," and has remained essentially unchanged to the present day.

Revenge for Her Sex.

Many men make a business of marrying women, securing their money and then deserting them. One woman in New England has taken it upon herself to avenge the wrongs of her sex in this line. This woman, who is described as "young, handsome and winning," is charged with having "fitted" from one military post to another, making her choice from the eligible young officers, captivating them, becoming the bride of each in turn, securing all the money possible from each and then "flitting" again. She has shown that the opposite sex has no monopoly in this sort of business. But whether she is actuated by desire to prove such condition or by purpose of gain is not made evident.—Chicago Journal.

First Lesson for Child.

One of the earliest lessons a child has to learn is obedience. When once a child is taught to obey, all other good habits come comparatively easy, but it should also be taught to obey with the conscience so that the instinct of obedience prevails even when one's back is turned; that is to say, the habit of obedience must not be acquired by fear or as an irksome duty, but must gain strength from the child's sense of honor and respect, and must be encouraged as a source of pleasure and wholesome pride in itself it becomes a part of the character.

The Inevitable.
An old man who had lived all his life on the moors of Scotland and had never seen a railway, was persuaded by his two sons to accompany them on a trip to Sheffield. Arriving at the station, the old man was terrified at the sight of the train running into the station and exclaimed: "Let's go back, lads, or something will happen." But his sons hustled him into a carriage, where he sat looking terribly upset, and muttering to himself, "something will happen." The climax was reached when the train dashed into a tunnel, the old man crying out, "I knew something would happen, I'm struck blind."
